EXAMPLES OF MANNER OF ATTACHMENT TO FARM TRACTOR

Select a location on the tractor to the rear and right or left of seat. Use existing bolts or bolt holes for attachment of angle clip and brace rods. For stability, the brace rods should be at right angles to each other and as high on the body tube as possible.

Alternate installation can be made by bolting the body tube clamps to a fender or other suitable location. Keep body clamps as far apart as possible. Discard brace rods and brace rod clamps when installation is made in this manner.
